Comments: I have electromagnetic radiation sensitivity. The recent roll out of 5G in my area had a significant affect on my well being. Each type of EMR exposure is assessed on an individual basis and declared safe. The cumulative effect of all artificial radiation has not been assessed. I have seen no information regarding the 400 satellites that were launched last year. The safety of 5G (a different wavelength than past generations) has not been proven safe for humans, plants or animals and insects). I find it just astounding that science invents something, floods the world with it and then goes oops ... sorry. Science has been corrupted to produce the results that suits the agenda. Just because you can't see something doesn't mean it's not harmful. I do not want a smart meter and I don't want my neighbours to have one either because it will affect me also.
