

The below submission has been lodged and confirmed on the AEMC Web site.

Submission Type: Rule Change

Reference: Participant derogation – financeability of ISP projects (TransGrid)

Organisation: Customer

First Name: Andrew

Last Name: Zheng-Macdonald

Email: am1971@hotmail.com

Phone Number: 438017048

Comments: I saw on the news that, you guys are recommending that home owners are charged for an upgrade to power polls and equipment to be able to take excess electricity from solar panels.

To my understanding, when contracts were signed by the Big Power Companies. There agreement stipulates that they are responsible for upgrade and maintenance of power poles and transmission equipment.

As a tax payer and an owner of home solar, I have my solar to save money. If your organisation makes the public pay for something that is a government and private company issue. I will add a battery, disconnect from the grid and keep my solar energy.