Comments: Should the commission introduce a charge on residences for solar power to the grid during grid lock, trigger for consideration application to gov for review residences with solar energy production being considered as primary producers and associated tax and GST relief. It is not the fault of residential solar energy producers when energy Suppliers don't upgrade infrastructure and keep up with changing landscapes.

Residences invested in this technology to reduce power bills and provide any residual power to the grid in consideration of the environmental benefits that brings to society as a whole. As should energy providers.

Savings to government in reduced demand to build additional highly polluting power stations.
