

The below submission has been lodged and confirmed on the AEMC Web site.

Submission Type: Rule Change

Reference: Access, pricing and incentive arrangements for distributed energy resources

Organisation: Self

First Name: Stephen

Last Name: Jerman

Email: sleeve70@gmail.com

Phone Number: 0418565012

Comments: Let me be clear on this matter, you charge me for saving money on electricity that is the most expensive in the world I will simply disconnect my solar system. At present I generate more than I use in summer and I still pay the electricity company. I average 600 a month in winter and have solar in order to save a few dollars, just like other Australian. If that incentive is taken away then I will simply turn off the stem and go off grid I stead The cost of living is high enough. Will I get charged for the rain water I collect next.

This is the dumbest rule I have seen to date, stop pandering to these large companies who want more and more profit.